

Search call for the Sales Director

IndustrySim Ltd., an international startup company, is developing a gamified software product - a platform for industrial training, marketing and engineering, which can also be used as a pure simulation game. For the training and engineering applications, our clients are companies (SME and the big ones) with interest in the manufacturing industry. Private persons, such as students, are the clients for the simulation game application. The first version is not launched yet.

We are seeking a person to join our entrepreneur team as a marketing and sales director. As the marketing and sales director, you will get a fair slice of the shares.

You would be responsible for starting up and running the marketing and sales activities. You need to know how to approach different customers (e.g. B2B clients) and possible sales partners. You should know how to build a proper social media presence. Last but not least, you need be a supporter of the three L's (Life Long Learning) and have an ability to pick up new things, since that is what IndustrySim is about!

We offer you the experience that you can tell your grandchildren about when sitting in your rocking chair ☺

Contact:

CEO, Mr. Tomas Rosin, tomas.rosin@industrysim.com, +358-(0)44-29 10129

Please find more information about the company and product at:

<http://www.industrysim.com>